THE DAILY NEWS.

VOL. 11.

RALEIGH, N. C., SUNDAY MORNING, APRIL 20, 1873.

NO. 47.

MORNING EDITION.

The Raleigh Daily News.

SUNDAY, APRIL 20, 1873.

All parties ordering the News will please send the money for the time the paper is wanted.

Special Notices inserted in the Local Column will be charged (20) Twenty Cents per line.

J. O. H. NUTTALL, of the Charlotte Advertising Agency, is agent for this paper in Charlotte, N. C. He is duly authorized to contract for advertisements and receipt for subscriptions.

Messrs. Griffin and Hoffman, Newspaper Advertising Agents, No. 4 South Street, Baltimore, Md. are daily authorized to contract for advertisements at low rates. Advertisers in that city are requested to leave their orders with this house.

THE AGRICULTURAL JOURNAL AND THE NEWS.—The State Agricultural Journal, an eight-page weekly published in Raleigh, N. C., will be published with the DAILY NEWS at $5.00 per annum, and with the WEEKLY NEWS at $3.00 per annum. Orders directed to either paper will receive prompt attention.

LOCAL MATTER.

E. C. WOODSON, City Editor

LOCAL BRIEFS.—
Radishes are now coming freely into market.

No cases yesterday at the Police Court.

The Baptist Sunday School picnic is on the first day of May.

Granville Court commences to-morrow. Judge Albertson presides.

The Good Templars of this city will have a grand festival on the 9th prox.

Don't fail to register. Remember the books close on the afternoon of the 25th inst.

Mr. Edwin Fuller's new novel will soon be out. It is now in the publisher's hands.

On and after Monday (to-morrow) the city registration books will be kept open until sundown.

The "spring passion" and "warbling bird" are the popular drinks of the season at the Yarrowburgh saloon.

It is now authoritatively stated that W. D. Haywood, Esq., will be an independent candidate for Mayor of this city.

Some fifty colored laborers have left this county for the South within the past two weeks.

Consumers should use from one-fourth to one-half less of Dosey's than of other Yest or Baking Powders. It is put up full weight.

Judge Albertson produced a most favorable impression upon the Bar of this city. His manner of presiding gave satisfaction to every one.

Eggs are scarce in this city. We learn that Boon Hill, just down the railroad, is overrun with hen fruit, and you can buy the bald beauties for 12 cents per dozen.

An old colored man, living in Panther's Creek Township, this county, dropped dead yesterday near his house. Heart disease was the cause.

The only case argued yesterday in the Supreme Court was that of M. A. Bledsoe vs. E. A. Nixon et al., a civil case. The Court adjourned. The next term commences on the fourth Monday of next June.

We continue to hear reports that our temperance friends intend to run a "dry ticket" in the ensuing municipal election, and say they are impelled to this course, because there are sixty licensed rum mills in this city and vicinity.

The contract for the printing of Judge Battle's digest of the public laws has been awarded to Messrs. Edwards & Broughton. Their bid was $7,450. We intended to mention this premium when it was first settled, but inadvertently neglected to do so.

We learn that the counsel for the Howerton Board on the Western road, failing to agree on their fees among themselves, left their services to be approved by his Honor, Judge Dick, and the Judge ordered them one hundred dollars each.

THE MODEL COTTON CHOPPER.—Our enterprising and ingenious townsman C. F. Reams, Esq., who has just returned from Washington, city, where he has been to secure a patent for his invention, the "Model Cotton Chopper," which in our opinion will prove a great blessing to our cotton farmers. As we are no farmer and "what we know about farming" would be of so little importance were we to tell it, we take from the State Agricultural Journal, undoubtedly the best authority, the following in regard to this new invention:

"Mr. C. F. Reams, of this city, has shown us the model of a very ingenious connection of revolving hoes the cotton is 'chopped out' with the same regularity as it could be done with a hoe in the hands of the most experienced chopper. The cultivator rests upon two large wheels, and very light. The depth for 'chopping out' are easily arranged. In addition to the chopping, &c., Mr. Reams claims for his new invention that it will 'side up' the young plant with as much accuracy as any of the implements for cutting ploughs. This is certainly a great labor saving implement."

Mr. Reams asks a thorough examination of his cotton cultivator by the planters throughout North Carolina.

Rev. Mr. Redd will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist Church this morning, and the Rev. Mr. Taylor in the evening.

"THE WAR IN THE REPUBLICAN RANKS."—In consequence of a communication in the News yesterday morning, under the above heading, in which the Raleigh Era was assailed by a "Republican," we are requested to give place to the following communication from the Editor of the Era:

OFFICE OF THE "ERA,"
Raleigh, N. C., April 19, 1873.
Mr. Jordan Stone, Managing Editor of
Daily News, Raleigh, N. C.:DEAR SIR:—In view of a publication made in the News of this morning, touching the conduct of the Era paper, of which I am Editor, and its policy on internal improvements, I ask, as a matter of justice to myself, and the paper which I edit, the publication of the following article which I communicated to your paper on Wednesday last, the 16th inst., and which you decided to hold up in consequence of the suit for injunction then pending and about to be argued. Very truly,
WM. A. HEARNE.

THE GAUGE OF THE NORTH CAROLINA RAILROAD.

Messrs. Editors of the News:

If the North Carolina Railroad can be made a part of a Grand Trunk Line, already about completed North and South, and of another Grand Trunk Line East and West, to be soon finished upon the line of the Western North Carolina Road from Salisbury West, then I insist that the gauge of the Central Road should be widened to conform to the Roads North, South and West of our Central North Carolina system. But I submit that such change of gauge ought to extend at least from Charlotte to Greensboro.

The completion of the Air Line from Charlotte to Atlanta next week, will (provided the gauge of our Road is opened) place Raleigh in uninterrupted broadgauge Railroad communication with Atlanta, New Orleans and the great Southwest, more than two hundred miles nearer than by any other route, and this advantage to the City of Raleigh and this section of North Carolina is not to be overlooked.

If the gauge is opened only from Greensboro, it is alleged that it will injure the business of this city and damage a great local interest, the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, which we must preserve, but if the gauge is opened all the way to Raleigh it will benefit this city and section and the local interests referred to, for, as the Southern system of Roads are the five feet gauge, it follows that in tapping a Grand Trunk Line we shall secure more business, passengers and freight, than we can ever hope for from a mere local Road, and a local Road the Central must be so long as it remains a narrow gauge link in a line of broad gauge Roads.

In the interest, therefore, of Raleigh, and I may say of the Raleigh and Gaston Railroad, I insist that the gauge of the North Carolina Road ought to be opened to Raleigh. This will make the R. & G. R. R. part of a short line from Baltimore to Atlanta, over that always popular and much sought after route, the old Bay Line.

I submit these hasty views for the consideration of the people of this section, and those of every Railroad interest involved.

PUBLIC INTEREST.

Raleigh, April 16th, 1873.

OUR CHURCHES TO-DAY.—Divine services will be held at the following Churches to-day, (Sunday) Strangers and others in the city are earnestly and cordially invited to attend. Gentlemanly ushers will be present to conduct visitors to pews which are always free.

Edenton Street Methodist Church, Edenton street, Rev. A. W. Mangum, officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

Baptist Church, corner Salisbury and Edenton streets. Rev. A. F. Redd, D. D., officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 8 o'clock P. M.

Presbyterian Church, corner Salisbury and Morgan streets. Rev. James Mc Cosh, D. D., officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

Christ's (Episcopal) Church, Wilmington street, Rev. R. S. Mason, D. D., officiating, services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

St. John's (Catholic) Church, corner Morgan & Wilmington streets. Rev. J. V. McNamara, priest, officiating. High mass at 11 o'clock. Vespers at 3 o'clock P. M.

Person street Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. H. Whitaker officiating. Service at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

St. Augustine (Col.) Episcopal, corner of Lone and Dawson streets, Rev. John Smedes, officiating services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 o'clock P. M.

Rev. Dr. McCosh.—Dr. McCosh, who will occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church to-day, is one of the foremost metaphysicians and writers of our times. A few years ago he left a leadership position in Great Britain as President of the College in Belfast to take the post which he now fills as President of the College of New Jersey at Princeton. He was well known in this country by his writings, as "The Divine Government, Physical and Moral, Typical Forms and Special ends in Creation," and other works of a philosophical character, which have long been in the hands of all scholars and theologians, and since he has been at Princeton, no man in this country has exercised so wide and weighty an influence on the thought and activity of this country in matters of philosophy and education, as he has done by his books, essays and addresses, and the college over which he presides has made most remarkable advances, and resumed its ancient rank as one of the foremost educational institutions of the country, along with Harvard and Yale.

TREASURE TROVE.—The lower end of Fayetteville, Va. was thrown into a great excitement yesterday by a report that a large sum of money had been discovered under a sill of the rear portion of the old Catholic Church, in rear of the Yarrowburgh House. The rumor spread with astonishing rapidity, and soon an eager and wondering crowd collected around the spot.

A report of the discovery passed from mouth to mouth, the sum grew larger and larger. Some declared that the amount was something over a million, while others were positive it was just an even $500,000. Just before our arrival at the spot, we were assured by a couple of gentlemen that they knew, from their own knowledge, the sum was $150,000 in gold. Now in order that the truth of history may be fully vindicated, and a truthful and unvarnished statement of this discovery given, we give the following facts in the case:

Yesterday morning as Nathan Field, colored, dining servant of the Yarrowburgh House was searching among the debris of the building mentioned above in quest of some keys he had lost, he came across a newspaper bundle and, prompted by curiosity, opened it, when a mass of gold and silver coin and packages of paper money met his astonished gaze. The coin amounts to probably $500 and the paper money, old State bank notes and Confederate bills, will aggregate about $200,000. In the bundle was also found a couple of watches—one a galvanized one of little or no value, and the other a pure gold one worth at least $150. When, or by whom the bundle was placed where it was found, is a mystery which will probably never be solved, at least Nathan Field hopes so.

TEMPERANCE SOCIABLE.—The social of Oak City Council of this city, at their Hall on Friday evening last, was a very pleasant affair, and a large number of persons were in attendance. Jas. D. Brooks, the popular General Agent of the Wilmington North Carolina Life Insurance Company, was the fortunate winner of the ring. We have to return our thanks for a waiter of delicious cake and ice cream.

(1) Pure and mellow! Century Whiskey!

RESIGNATION OF W. A. SMITH.—On Friday, at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Railroad, at Company Shops, Hon. W. A. Smith resigned his position as President of the road, giving as his reason for so doing, pressing private affairs. A meeting of the Board of Directors will be held on the 14th prox., at Salisbury, to elect his successor.

ROBT. LAWSON & CO.—Our types Thursday morning made us say that Messrs. Robert Lawson & Co., saddlery and harness dealers of Baltimore, had made a contribution to the State Fair. It should have read Robert Lawson & Co. We hope many other business men of Norfolk, Baltimore and other places, will be heard from.

REGISTRATION.—Yesterday the registration in the various Wards resulted as follows:

Middle Ward.—Whites 6; colored 1.

Western Ward.—Whites 8; colored 3.

Eastern Ward.—Whites 17; colored 6.

POSTPONED.—Yesterday afternoon it was expected that Judge Albertson would deliver his opinion in the injunction case, in reference to the change of the gauge of the North Carolina Railroad west of Greensboro, but by agreement of counsel the decision was postponed. Whenever the decision is rendered the readers of the News will have it in full.

We learn that Col. W. F. Green, of Franklin, has been invited by the Ladies' Memorial Association of this city, to deliver the address on the 10th of May. We hope that Col. Green may find it convenient to accept the invitation. M. T. Leach has been appointed Chief Marshal for the occasion.

STATE OF THE THERMOMETER.—The thermometer yesterday stood as follows at Branson's Book Store:

At

NORTH CAROLINA.

Concord (?) wants street cars. Stand from under.

Guilford county is harassed by sheep killing dogs.

Edgecombe county has hogs that digest rails.

Anson county has suffered from fire in the woods.

Wilmington is excited again on the subject of cotton factories.

The Otter Creek Peabody School, Bacon county, has 133 pupils.

C. C. Stille has been nominated as a candidate for Mayor of Rocky Mount.

W. L. Hollingsworth, of Castalia, Nash county, died on Saturday of last week.

Captain Ruffin Ricks died very suddenly last week at his residence in Nash county.

The State Council, Friends of Temperance, convenes in Statesville on the 7th prox.

The turpentine distillery of Messrs. Ferrell & Bro. Clinton, Sampson county, was destroyed by fire on Thursday.

Gen. Clingman is to lecture before the Young Men's Christian Association, Asheville, on the 22nd inst. His subject will be, "Science and Christianity."

The dwelling house and kitchen of Mr. Merritt Tyson, near Ansonville, Anson county, was destroyed by fire last Wednesday. The fire was accidental.

A little colored girl in Statesville the other day was pointedly wounded in the mouth and face by the accidental discharge of a shot gun in the hands of a colored man.

On the 9th inst., J. M. McMan, then U. S. Deputy Marshal, was bushwhacked on the Blue Ridge Mountain, not far from Green River. A hill ball passed through an oil cloth which enveloped his person.

Says the Battleboro Advertiser of the 18th inst.: "Capt. J. A. Harrison, of Castalia, passed through here on Monday last to attend a meeting of the heirs of Sir Francis Drake at Pittsburg, Penn., last Wednesday. The immense fortune left by the illustrious naval commander has been lying in the bank of England for years awaiting the rightful heirs. It is now definitely ascertained that his heirs are in the United States, but there is much difficulty, on account of the long lapse of time, to trace every link in the genealogy. The meeting at Pittsburg is to hear the report of those entrusted with the matter at a former meeting and to devise ways and means to secure to the heirs their rights in the premises."

Says the Newbern Times of the 18th inst.: "Yesterday at Goldsboro, while moving the telegraph and express office from its former position to the present one in the new hotel building, the wires were detached from the old office and carried across the street to attach to the new office; while this was being done, one of the wires got loose and dropped just at the time the Wilmington & Weldon train came in, and becoming entangled with the locomotive, which dragged it along to the imminent danger of crushing it, it was with a sudden snap, finally caught a small boy and threw him on the track over which the train was passing, but fortunately he escaped without injury."

Says the Asheville Pioneer of the 17th inst.: "On the 4th inst. Mrs. Caroline Jones, wife of H. K. Jones, who resides on Green River, in the upper edge of Polk county, near the Henderson line, met with a serious, if not fatal accident. She was out in the mountain with her daughter, aged thirteen years, looking for stray sheep, and approaching the edge of a precipice, she lost her balance and fell from the summit to the base, a distance of two hundred and fifteen feet. Her daughter, partially stupefied by the appalling calamity, hurried down the cliff, at the foot of which she found her mother lying insensible, with the blood streaming from a terrible wound on her head. After failing to revive her, she went back and procured assistance, when the unfortunate woman was carried home, and Dr. King summoned. He found that her skull was fractured, and the scalp, from the line of the forehead to the crown, was literally torn off."

Interesting Letter From General Clingman.

We found in the columns of the Western Explorer, the following interesting letter from General Clingman, which we take pleasure in reproducing:

ASHEVILLE, April 8th, 1873.

GENTLEMEN: I reply to your inquiry with reference to the mica deposits in this section of the State, and the appearance of early operations for the same. I can now, before leaving town, only present you a brief statement.

The old Cherokee Indians, living in some of the western counties, used to speak of a tradition coming down in their tribe, that long ago companies of white men came on mules from the South, worked during the summer, and carried off a white metal with them. The remains of some old works in Cherokee county seem to give countenance to this report, and at one place at least, present the appearance of having been excavated by persons skilled in mining. The fact that they were abandoned before much work was done, would rather imply that they were mere tests, which had proved unsuccessful.

There are, however, in other localities, numerous remains of old excavations, some of which are much more extensive, and which were done in a different formation. In the year 1867, and in the early part of 1868, I examined several of these localities in the counties of Cleveland, Rutherford and Burke, on the east side of the Blue Ridge, and in Mitchell, Yancey and Buncombe. In most instances the work had been slight, showing that it had been done as a mere experiment, which had not proven satisfactory. In several localities, however, it was very manifest that the operators had met with such success as to cause them to extend their working greatly. In every case I examined as to leave no doubt but that the parties had found at certain localities some mineral of value to them, and that wherever they observed like indications they had made tests. Again, from the fact that they never worked in hard ground—that is, where the work required blasting—it was evident that they were not provided with the means of blasting.

At every one of the places I examined, mica was abundant in veins composed chiefly of felspar and quartz, the former generally predominating. The mica generally of the debris was generally in small flakes, except at Mr. Garrett Ray's on the waters of Boli's Creek, where a number of large sheets had been left. This last mentioned fact seemed to indicate that the mica itself had not been the object of the exploration.

The most extensive of all the excavations was that on the land of Mr. Wm. Silvers, in Mitchell county, near the line between Burnsville to Bakersville. From the appearance there, it would seem that a large number of miners had been at work for years at that place. In the excavations, extending for about four hundred yards, they had at intervals left bars across as if to prevent the earth at the sides from falling in—making thus a succession of openings fifty or sixty feet in extent, separated by narrow ridges of earth. Timber which I examined, that had grown on the earth thrown out, had been growing as long as three hundred years.

Near one of the workings, not far from this place, I also saw a slab of stone that had evidently been marked by blows of a metal tool, and which had, from the appearances about it, been most probably intended to mark the locality. As the manner in which the work had been done at Mr. Silvers' resembled that sometimes practiced by the Mexicans, it seemed possible that a party of Spaniards—about the time when Cortes was in Mexico and De Soto was in Florida—might have rambled up into this region and, by employing the Indians as laborers, in the course of a few years have caused such explorations to have been made. On examining the material about the place, I found fragments that had been thrown out very like in their appearance some of the best Mexican silver ores. Several Western miners, to whom the specimens were shown in New York, prior to any assay, expressed great confidence that they would go to two or three hundred dollars in silver per ton. An assay, however, seemed to show only three dollars per ton. I caused it to be repeated, and had the same reply. This would seem to indicate that these were bits discarded because too poor, but that the work had perhaps been prosecuted for silver. I caused therefore a shaft to be sunk, and two tunnels to be carried entirely below the old excavations, and became satisfied that there was no working silver ore to be found there. Large mica of good quality was abundant. It seemed certain that this work had been done for mica. But the question more difficult to answer presented itself: by whom could this work have been executed? The Norsemen were on our coast as far back as six or seven centuries ago; they might have penetrated into the interior, and by employing the natives have caused these works to be executed, and carried the mica away to be used as window-lights for their huts, as the inhabitants of the Arctic regions do to this day.

But on the other hand, I have been informed that mica has been found with other old Indian ornaments and implements in certain caves in Tennessee, and perhaps elsewhere. It does not therefore seem improbable that a former race of Indians—possibly the "Mound builders," who used copper tools—made these excavations for the purpose of procuring the mica.

These veins are found with the gneiss and mica slate strata, which constitute the greater portion of the rocks of this region. The elements of their composition are mica, felspar, quartz, and clay, and even of clay slate. The difference is wholly in the structure of the veins, and not in their elements. In the veins the felspar, which usually predominates, exists tolerably pure, the quartz in lumps of various sizes, sometimes weighing several hundred pounds. Near the surface the felspar, converted by atmospheric action into kaolite, presents chalky looking belts, with quartz lying in lumps of different sizes, and more or less mica scattered around.

As almost all the rocky strata of this and the adjoining counties consist in great part of mica, persons must expect to find it everywhere. For commercial purposes, it is best sought therefore where it exists in plates of some size, is sufficiently transparent, and is free from such contortions and flaws as prevent its being split into thin sheets. Though the sizes of the crystals will vary in different parts of the vein they are as likely to be large at the surface as deeper down. That found at the surface, however, is usually injured by exposure to the weather, which in time decomposes it, and is also disfigured by the clay carried into its seams. Unless within a few feet of the surface some mica of fair size is found, there would not seem to be encouragement to expend much labor in explorations.

*Besides the veins I mention now being operated on in the counties of Mitchell and Yancey, I have seen from two localities in the southern part of this county (Buncombe) mica of fine size and good quality. Such is also found in the counties of Haywood, Jackson and Macon to the west, and as far as Lincoln and Catawba. There seems to be no doubt but that there is a track of country of more than one hundred and fifty miles in extent capable of producing good mica, in quantities sufficient to supply a very large demand. Should that demand continue, these mines might be worked profitably to the depth of a thousand feet or more, and for centuries to come.

No other mineral of much commercial value has yet been found in mica veins, but it is to be hoped that at some point or other the beryl found may occur in the form of emeralds. I have seen one or two transparent white beryl, and several small aquamarines, some of which I had cut. This last mineral, though used as a gem, is in fact worth little more than the cost of cutting it. As however the emerald owes its fine green color to the presence of less than one per cent. of the oxide of chromium, and as chrome ore is widely dispersed throughout this section, we may hope that at some point emeralds may be found. I need scarcely remind you, that the emerald ranks next in value to the ruby and the diamond.

Very respectfully, yours, etc., T. L. CLINGMAN.

THE OLD, OLD HOME.

When I long for sainted memories,
Like angel troops they come,
If I fold my arms to ponder
On the old, old home,
The heart has many passages
Through which the feelings roam,
But the middle aisle is sacred
To the old, old home.

Where infancy was sheltered
Like rose-buds from the blast,
Where girlhood's brief elysium
In joyousness was passed;
To last sweet spot forever,
As to some hallowed dome,
Life's pilgrim bends his vision—
To the old, old home.

A father sat, how proudly,
By that hearthstone's rays,
And told his children stories
Of his early manhood's days;
And one soft eye was beaming
From child to child 'round him;
Thus a mother counts her treasures,
In the old, old home.

The birthday gifts and festivity,
The blended vespers hymn
(Some dear one who was swelling it
In the old, old home)
The fond "good nights" at bed-time,
How quiet sleep would come,
And fold us all together
In the old, old home.

Like a wreath of scented flowers
Close intertwine each heart;
But time and change in concert
Have blown the wreath apart,
But dear and sainted memories
Like angels ever come,
If I fold my arms and ponder
On the old, old home.

Acts of Love.—Each one of a thousand acts of love costs very little by itself, and yet, when viewed all together, who can estimate their value? What is it that secures for one the name of a kind neighbor? Not the doing of half a dozen great favors in many years, but the little every-day kindnesses none of which seems of much consequence considered in itself, but the continued repetition of which sheds a sunlight over the whole neighborhood. It is so too in the family. The child whose good offices are always ready when they are wanted—to run up-stairs or down, to rock the cradle, or to run on an errand, and all with a cheerful look and a pleasant temper—a reward along with such good deeds. If a little girl cannot take her grandfather on her lap as he takes her on his, she can get his slippers, or put away his book, or gently comb his thin locks; and, whether she thinks of it or not, little kindnesses that come from a loving heart are the sunbeams that lighten up a dark and woful world.

YOUR OCCUPATION.—Do not be above your business, no matter what that business may be, but strive to be the best in your line. He who turns up his nose at his work quarrels with his bread and butter. He is a poor smith who quarrels with his own sparks. There is no shame about an honest calling! Do not be afraid of soiling your hands, there is plenty of soap to be had. All trades are good to traders. Beware only of one thing—laziness. There is plenty to do in this world for every pair of hands placed in it; and we must not work that the world will be richer because of our having lived in it.

BEWARE OF THE HIDDEN SHOALS.—A ship on the broad, boisterous, and open ocean needeth no pilot. But it dare not venture alone on the placid bosom of a little river, lest it be wrecked by some hidden rock. Thus it is with life. It is not in our open, exposed deeds that we need the still voice of the silent monitor, but in the small, secret, every-day acts of life, wherein conscience should warn us to beware of the hidden shoals of what we deem too common to be dangerous.
